REQUIRED MATERIALS:

- Cultural Anthropology (5th edition) by Miller, ISBN 978-0-205-68329-1 (also available as an eBook from the publisher for a discounted price; several copies are available at the Periodicals/Reserve Desk in college library for check-out up to two hours).
- Four Scantron 882 forms.

COURSE DESCRIPTION:

This course introduces students to cultural anthropology, a subdiscipline of anthropology that focuses on the cultural and social aspects of people around the globe. We'll explore topics such as: ethnicity and "race", language, gender, social stratification and class, sociopolitical organization, making a living, religion, kinship and marriage, perceptions of illness and healing, culture change, and the relationship between colonialism, globalization and development.

COURSE OBJECTIVES:

Upon completion of the course, students will be able to:

- Relate aspects of their own culture to that of other societies
- Apply cultural anthropology to other disciplines, topics and social issues outside of the classroom
- Demonstrate a solid understanding of cultural relativism and how it applies to the study of various societies
- Compare and contrast the various subsistence strategies which are practiced cross-culturally
- Analyze and describe the various kinship and marriage systems which exist cross-culturally
- Evaluate and identify the levels of social and political organization, and various economic systems
- Assess whether the concept of race is a cultural or biological classification
- Identify the cross-cultural differences in interpreting and explaining disease and illness
- Compare and contrast the role that religious belief systems play in affecting behavior cross-culturally
- Assess the current effects of the industrialized world on developing nations and indigenous peoples of the world

STUDENT LEARNING OUTCOMES:

Student learning outcomes are behavioral objectives - what a student should know, value and be able to demonstrate or perform after the class is completed. Below is an example of a student learning outcome for this class:

On an objective exam students will demonstrate an understanding of the holistic approach in anthropology by identifying the appropriate definition.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS:

Allow plenty of time to prepare for assignments and exams. As a college student, it's your responsibility to discover how much time you require to study for exams, complete reading assignments, write papers, etc. When in doubt, start early! Students who invest a lot of time in completing assignments and studying for exams, are usually the ones who earn the highest grades.

WEEKLY READING: Don't fall behind! Reading is critical to your success in this class because it prepares you for the lectures, exams and assignments. Reading is an essential part of a college education, as it improves critical thinking and comprehension skills. Reading is an essential part of a college education - it improves critical thinking and comprehension skills. Make it a habit to keep up with assigned reading every week so you don't fall behind.

PLAGIARISM QUIZ (no credit, but required): This quiz isn't worth any points, but students must complete it, and earn 100%, in order to qualify for submitting the Critical Thinking assignments, the Development Anthropology paper and extra credit. These assignments will not be accepted if you don't complete the Plagiarism Quiz. The quiz will be distributed in class and is due the second week of the semester. If you don't earn 100% on it the first time, you can retake it until you do. To prepare for this quiz, read ALL the information on the Plagiarism Handout (distributed in class) and the following website: <http://www.indiana.edu/~wts/pamphlets/plagiarism.shtml>. This link is also available on my website (under the "Cultural Anth" link, top left).

CRITICAL THINKING PAPERS (140 points, 35%): Eight articles will be distributed in class throughout the semester on various topics pertaining to cultural anthropology. Each article will include a set of five-to-seven critical thinking questions, which are to be answered in a typed paper. Students may miss one paper without affecting their grade (if you complete all eight, you'll earn 10 extra credit points towards your class grade). Papers are due at the beginning of class on the due dates listed in the class schedule, and answers will be discussed in class that day. Therefore, no late papers will be accepted. No exceptions.

DEVELOPMENT ANTHROPOLOGY PAPER (50 points, 12.5%): Students will be required to analyze and assess the work of a non-profit organization that works, and provides aid, to communities in developing nations. A three-to-four page paper will be due at the end of the semester. Details will be distributed in class.

EXAMS (210 points total, 52.5%): There will be four exams which cover material from readings, lectures, films and some in-class activities. Each one includes multiple-choice, true/false and matching questions. The final exam will be partially cumulative (i.e. include some "review topics" from previous exams). Study guides will be available for each exam. BE ON TIME FOR EXAMS! Each one starts at the beginning of class. Your exam grade will be marked down 5% if you're more than 10 minutes late, and you won't be given extra time to finish it. Students are required to purchase four Scantron 882 forms for exams.

EXAM MAKE-UP PROCEDURES: Make-ups will only be given at the instructor's discretion if an emergency, or other serious situation, arises that prevents you from attending class on the exam date. YOU MUST FOLLOW THE INSTRUCTIONS BELOW TO BE CONSIDERED FOR A MAKE-UP:

- 1) notify me by email or phone no later than 24 hours after the scheduled exam/essay, AND:
- 2) when you return the following class meeting provide the instructor with a written or typed explanation of why you had to miss the exam (written by you), along with some form of "proof" for your absence if you have it (e.g. doctor's note, police report, letter from your supervisor, funeral notice, etc.). I don't contact doctor's offices or supervisors; it's your responsibility to obtain a letter from them and bring it to me.

Make-ups aren't automatically approved – it depends on the nature of your situation. If you provide proof/evidence of your absence, you stand a better chance of having your request approved. You'll be notified within a week as to whether you can complete a make-up. All make-ups will be scheduled at a date and time determined by the instructor. Grades on all make-ups will be marked down regardless of the excuse (10%/one full letter grade). Only one make-up will be allowed per student. No exceptions.

EXTRA CREDIT:

Students may earn up to 15 extra points (approx. 4% towards your class grade). Extra credit is due at the end of the semester and can be used to make up some points missed on assignments and exams. Extra credit is a privilege and I reserve the right to refuse extra credit assignments from anyone (e.g. students who are continually tardy, exceed the maximum number of absences, plagiarize assignments or are discourteous to their classmates).

GRADING SCALE:

The following scale will be used to calculate your class grade:

90 - 100%	A	360-400 points
80 - 89%	B	320-359 points
70 - 79%	C	280-319 points
60 - 69%	D	240-279 points
0 - 59%	F	239 and below

KEEPING TRACK OF YOUR GRADE

Record your points in the table below to help you calculate your grade throughout the semester (e.g. at anytime during the semester add up your total points and divide by the total number of points accumulated in class so far):

	Your points:	Points possible	% of Grade
Exams	-----	210	52.5%
1		50
2		50
Final		60
CT Papers (you may miss one)	-----	140	35%
1		20
2		20
3		20
4		20
5		20
6		20
7		20
8		20
Development Anthro Paper		50	12.5%
Extra Credit		(15)	(~4%)
TOTAL		400	100%

ACADEMIC HONESTY POLICY:

Students are expected to abide by ethical standards in preparing and presenting material that demonstrates their level of knowledge, and which is used to determine grades. PLAGIARISM, CHEATING OR FURNISHING MATERIALS IN ORDER TO ENABLE OTHER STUDENTS TO DO SO WILL NOT BE TOLERATED. This sort of behavior violates Section I.B.1 of El Camino College's Board Policy 5138, Standards of Student Conduct.

The following cases constitute PLAGIARISM: 1) submitting under one's own name papers or reports which have been prepared by others (including the use of commercial term paper companies); 2) copying word for word, an author's sentences or paragraphs and including them in your paper as your own work; 3) paraphrasing published material without acknowledging the source; and 4) improperly paraphrasing material.

CHEATING is defined as: 1) using notes, aids or the work of other students on exams or papers in ways other than those expressly permitted by the instructor; 2) misreporting or altering the data in research projects involving the collection of data; 3) submitting an assignment which is identical to that of another student's (i.e. sentences and/or paragraphs are the same, word for word, and/or results from data collection are identical).

Academic dishonesty may be dealt with in one or more of the following ways: 1) the student may receive an appropriate academic penalty such as an oral reprimand; 2) an "F" may be assigned on all or part of a particular paper or exam; or 3) the student may be suspended from all classes for that term and the following term if deemed appropriate.

ABSENCES/TARDIES:

According to college policy "a student may be dropped from class when the number of hours absent exceeds the number of units assigned to the course." The maximum number of absences allowed in my class is TWO. Once you reach three, you may be dropped from the class regardless of the reason for the absences (e.g. domestic, medical, work- or school-related, or otherwise). In the event of an absence, it's your responsibility to check with another student about what you missed. I recommend you copy lecture notes from another student when you return (outside of class time, please).

Make it a habit to come to class on time. Your tardies create distractions for your classmates and the instructor. Excessive tardies will affect your class grade (points will be deducted). The same holds true for those who make it a habit to leave class early. It's your responsibility to notify me if you arrived after roll was taken; do this at the end of class on the day of your tardy. Failure to do so, or late notification of a tardy, will result in being marked absent.

DROPPING THE CLASS:

Although instructors may drop students, the college views dropping as the student's responsibility. Sometimes students stop attending class near the final drop deadline and the instructor doesn't catch it in time (in which case the student winds up with an "F" in the class). Don't assume you'll automatically be dropped due to non-attendance. If you need to drop, you can go to Admissions on campus or drop online through MyECC.

CLASSROOM BEHAVIOR AND CONDUCT:

Anthropology deals with some controversial topics that may challenge one's belief systems. You're expected to practice courtesy and respect at all times, regardless of whether or not you agree with information presented in class. This is the nature of anthropology: to respect (and attempt to understand) ways of life and beliefs that are different from your own. Anyone who is disrespectful or disruptive will be asked to discontinue participation and may be required to leave the room. Behaviors that disrupt the learning process will not be tolerated.

When you attend my class, you're expected to come prepared and fully participate. This doesn't necessarily mean raising your hand and verbally participating in class discussions (though that would be great!), but that you're alert, actively taking notes during lectures, films, etc. and participating in class activities. Non-participation will affect your grade. Examples of non-participation include: talking to others during lectures or films, passing notes to another student, sleeping, reading textbooks or completing homework for other classes, text messaging. Points will be deducted from your grade if you regularly engage in these, or similar, behaviors.

Please don't make it a habit to come and go during class because this is also very disruptive to your classmates and the instructor. Students who do so on a regular basis, will be marked absent for the day and/or points will be deducted from their grade. If, on occasion, you know ahead of time that you'll need to excuse yourself temporarily from class or leave early, please take a seat near the door to avoid disrupting others.
