Catalog Course Description

In this course students analyze the influence of the social environment on behavior and social life using sociological theoretical perspectives. Components of social structure and social culture are critically examined through sociological theories and concepts including socialization, deviance, social institutions, and social change. Inequalities based on issues such as social class, race, ethnicity, gender, and age will also be analyzed.

Course Policies

Please note that the syllabus is always subject to change depending on the size, composition, and needs of the class. Any changes will be posted on the class website.

Late assignments: Assignments that are turned in one day late will earn half possible points. Assignments will not be accepted any later. If you are absent your assignment can be e-mailed to the instructor by the class start time the day it is due. Text must be in the body of the e-mail, not as an attachment. Students must be in class to earn full points for any assignment marked “in-class component.”

Test taking: There are no make-up quizzes. No talking is permitted during a quiz.

Attendance and Punctuality Policy: Come to class and be on time. Attendance points can only be earned by coming to class on time and staying for the entire duration. In accordance with ECC policy, 4 absences can lead to being dropped from the course. One absence excused. One tardy excused, after which each instance of being late to class will lead to 2 points being detracted from your grade. Students who miss the first day of class will be dropped.

Technology: Silence cell phones during class, texting is not permitted. Cell phones may not be in sight during class. Texting or answering your phone in class will lead to a loss of 5 points. Music devices should be put away as soon as class begins. Laptop users must sit in the back row of class to avoid distractions. Use of laptops for anything other than note taking will lead to a loss of 5 points and loss of laptop privileges.

E-mail Etiquette: When sending an e-mail to any member of the faculty or staff, write in a professional manner. This means opening the e-mail with an appropriate salutation (such as “Hi Ms. Din”), writing in complete sentences, proofreading, avoiding slang or text abbreviations, and ending with an appropriate closing (such as “Sincerely” or “Thank you”) and your full name.

Class Discussions: Students will be active participants in the course. Be prepared to discuss readings and topics in detail.

“I have never in my life learned anything from any man who agreed with me.” -Dudley Field Malone.

Many of the topics discussed in class are intended to spark debate and thoughtful discussion. Be respectful of each other’s ideas. Be patient and allow peers to complete their remarks. Be positive and constructive in group discussions.

Respect: It is essential that all students in class treat each other with respect. Learning can only take place in a positive environment and all students are expected to behave accordingly:

1. Sidebar conversations during class are unacceptable
2. Negative comments towards other students are unacceptable
3. Any talking during a quiz or student/guest presentation is unacceptable

Violation of classroom policies will lead to disciplinary action. (This can include a loss of 15 points from your grade and a formal write-up) The El Camino College faculty, staff, and administration are dedicated to maintaining an optimal learning environment. The standards of behavior as outlined above are essential to the maintenance of a quality college environment.

Written Assignments: All assignments must be typed. Proof read your written work before turning it in. Excessive errors in grammar, spelling, or punctuation will result in detracted points. El Camino College provides free writing and internet assistance in the Writing Center located in Humanities 122, (310) 660-3873.

Academic Integrity: Plagiarism is an act of deception that will result in automatic failure of the course. Reference all materials using the American Psychological Association (APA) or Modern Language Association (MLA) Style Guide. Visit the Papers tab of the course website for details on what constitutes plagiarism and information on how to properly cite sources before submitting papers.

ADA: Any student who feels he/she may need an accommodation based on a disability should contact the instructor privately the first week of class to discuss their specific needs. If you have questions regarding if you qualify for course adaptations or special accommodations under the American with Disabilities Act, you may contact the El Camino College Special Resource Center at (310) 660-3295 or visit http://www.elcamino.edu/academics/src/.

Objectives

By the end of this course you will be able to:

1. Define and describe sociology as a field of study and distinguish it from other disciplines in the social sciences.
2. Explain and apply the sociological imagination as defined by C. Wright Mills.
3. Identify and describe key theoretical perspectives in sociology, including functionalism, conflict, and interactionism. Analyze the strengths and weaknesses of each perspective relative to a variety of social situational circumstances.
4. Identify and analyze prominent classic theorists in sociology, such as Karl Marx, Max Weber, and Emile Durkheim, as well as contemporary theorists, such as Peter Berger, George Ritzer, and Talcott Parsons and their contributions to the field of sociology.
5. Identify the six steps in the scientific method and distinguish between qualitative and quantitative research methods.
6. Evaluate the advantages and disadvantages of research methodologies sociologists use to gather and analyze data.
7. Articulate dimensions of material and nonmaterial culture, including norms, values, and symbols.
8. Classify and define micro and macro elements of social structure, including status, role, social groups, organizations, and institutions.
9. Identify agents of socialization and describe the process of socialization throughout the life course. Explain the “nature vs. nurture” debate and assess socialization theories of human development.
10. Define deviance and social control. Identify and apply theories used to explain deviant behavior.
11. Demonstrate an understanding of sociological concepts relating to social stratification and inequality.
12. Describe major social institutions and evaluate their impact on individuals and groups in American society. Discuss historical and contemporary changes in these institutions.
Student Learning Outcome (SLO): Given a set of multiple choice examination questions, students will apply sociological theoretical perspectives to specific scenarios and demonstrate an understanding of the purpose of sociological theoretical perspectives.
