Both sides need to compromise, not bicker

It's no longer about what is best for the United States and those in it; it's become about who is right and who is wrong.

Politicians, instead of listening, police and advocates on both sides need to remember that the ends do not justify the means, and changing decisions will be made without the proper knowledge.

Cinco de Mayo, another American holiday

Construction is a nuisance; students find it annoying

The parking lot is chaotic.

The construction that we are subjected to is not the only one that is affecting the college. The traffic has built up, and it is becoming harder to get around on campus.

The construction has made it harder for students to get to their classes on time. It has caused delays on the buses, making it difficult for students to get to their classes on time.

The construction has caused a lot of frustration among the students.

We are frustrated with the delays caused by the construction.

We are frustrated with the lack of communication from the college administration.

We are frustrated with the lack of attention given to our concerns.

We are frustrated with the lack of action from the college administration.
