

CHILDHOOD EDUCATION

Degree, Permit, and Certificate Requirements

The following requirements for the major are subject to change without notice. To assure the accuracy of the information on this sheet, you should consult with an El Camino College counselor and/or visit the website for the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing (www.ctc.ca.gov).

The degree and certificates in Childhood Education prepare students for careers in private or public programs serving infants, toddlers, preschoolers, children with special needs, or children in before or after school care. Please see below for specific El Camino College major and certificate course requirements.

The California Commission on Teacher Credentialing child development permits authorize the holder to teach in early childhood education programs such as Head Start and those offered through school districts. All coursework toward the permit must be completed with a minimum grade of C, and each permit is renewable after five years by completing 105 hours of professional growth activities under the direction of a Professional Growth Advisor. (Note: Alternate routes to the permit are available for students who already possess a college degree. Please see a child development counselor for details).
