El Camino Community College District Not Party to Compton District Stipulation Prohibiting November 8 Election

The El Camino Community College District (ECCCD) has been informed of a proposed Stipulation and Settlement in Landeros v. Compton Community College District. The injunction, if granted, would prohibit the Los Angeles County Superintendent of Schools from calling the Compton Community College District's (CCCD) November 8, 2011 election.

It is important to note that through legislation outlining the agreement between the ECCCD and the CCCD, each district is a separate legal entity. As such, the El Camino Community College District is not a party to this action, and has no involvement whatsoever in this matter.

As many public agencies and school districts in California are doing, the El Camino Community College District has begun a public process to review and modify its elected trustee area boundaries. This process includes utilizing 2010 census data to review current trustee areas to ensure they are representative of the District's constituents. The ECCCD Board of Trustees began discussions on this process in fall 2010. In January 2011, the Board directed staff to initiate a process and timeline for a trustee area boundary review. The ECCCD Board of Trustees appointed a seven-member Boundary Review Committee (BRC) in May, with at least one member from each of the ECCCD's five trustee areas. The committee begins meeting this summer with a mapping consultant to outline potential trustee boundaries. The BRC will hold public hearings in early fall, with plans to present a recommendation to the ECCCD Board of Trustees early in 2012.
