El Camino College Breaks Ground on New Parking Structure

El Camino College broke ground on Monday, March 10 for a new parking structure that will provide more than 1,000 parking spaces for students.

After nearly two years, the Department of State Architects approved the college's plans for the five-level Lot H "Parking Structure & Athletic Facilities Project," which will include a NCAA standard softball field and 10 tennis courts.

The project is estimated to cost a total of $25 million, supported by funds from Measure E, the college's facilities bond that voters approved in 2002. A stoplight with a left-hand turn into campus off of Redondo Beach Boulevard will be installed to coincide with completion of the project. The parking structure is scheduled to be completed next summer.
