El Camino College Foundation Board Member to Become a Member of the U.S. Supreme Court Bar

El Camino College Foundation board member David Graeler will be sworn in as a member of the U.S. Supreme Court bar next month. This honor enables him to appear and make arguments before the highest court in the nation.

Two current members of the United States Supreme Court Bar sponsored Graeler, a Redondo Beach resident, attesting that he possesses the qualifications, professional and moral character necessary to practice before the nation's highest court. Candidates for membership to the Supreme Court Bar must have been admitted to practice in the highest court of a state for at least three years before the date of application. He will be sworn in by the Supreme Court justices on April 3 at the Supreme Court in Washington, D.C.

An attorney with Nossaman, Guthner, Knox & Elliott, Graeler is an associate in the firm's eminent domain group. He has a law degree from Loyola Law School and a bachelor's degree from the University of California, Irvine. He also attended El Camino College while still in high school. Graeler is a member of the California State Bar, the Los Angeles County Bar Association, International Right of Way Association, and the American Bar Association.
