El Camino College French Professor Named “Teacher of the Year”

El Camino College French professor Evelyne Charvier-Berman was recently named "Outstanding Teacher of the Year" by the California Language Teacher Association (CTLA).

Charvier-Berman has been a member of the El Camino College Foreign Language Department since 1985, and teaches French language, culture and literature courses. Before joining the El Camino College faculty, she taught at Lycée Pasteur, Besançon France; Jefferson High School in Los Angeles, and UCLA. She received her bachelor's degree and master's degree in English Language and Literature from the Université Stendhal, in Grenoble, France.

After arriving in the United States, Charvier-Berman pursued her studies in French and earned a master's degree and doctorate in French from UCLA. She has published articles on Stendhal and Maupassant, has presented at numerous conferences nationwide, and co-authored the first-year college French textbook, "A l'aventure." She is a member of CLTA, among other professional organizations.
