El Camino College to Present Student Photography Exhibit

The El Camino College Photography Department will present a Student Photography Exhibition in the Schauerman Library during the month of April. More than 70 photographs from about 35 students will be on display, showcasing a wide variety of work in film and digital images, ranging from beginning through advanced levels. Subject matter includes portraiture, landscapes, still life images, and abstracts.

The exhibition is designed to give students the chance to participate in an exhibition, offering real-world experiences that will be helpful throughout their career. Students also have the opportunity to interact with the community by sharing their hard work and talent with students, faculty and staff.

Four El Camino College students were recently selected as finalists in the Photographer's Forum Best of College Photography Competition and their work is in the exhibition as well. El Camino College photography professor Darilyn Rowan is curator for the exhibition.
