El Camino College to Present Science, Technology, Engineering & Math Career Conference

El Camino College will sponsor a conference on Nov. 20 for students interested in careers in science, technology, engineering and math fields.

The STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering & Math) Student Conference runs from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. at El Camino College, and offers a professional development opportunity for students interested in pursuing an education or career in any of the STEM fields. From engineering to biotechnology, to teaching in the math and sciences, students will learn about the latest careers in STEM fields, as well find out about transfer information and the degree and certificate programs offered at El Camino College.

Conference participants will start the day at Marsee Auditorium with breakfast and a keynote presentation. Workshops follow in the Humanities Building.

STEM conference workshop topics include: transferring to a university; careers in teaching math, science or technology; women in STEM careers; engineering technology careers; robotic technology; and biotechnology. In addition, an alumni panel will share experiences and success stories about how they transferred and moved on to exciting careers in STEM fields.

Interested students should register online by Nov. 17, or pick up, complete and return the application to the MESA Center (MCS 100F), Job Placement Center (SSV 204), or the Natural Science Division Office (LS 101).

For more information, contact 310-660-3593, Ext. 3452.
