Classes Available at El Camino College for Fall 2017

Apply and register today; fall semester begins August 26

There is still time to apply and register for El Camino College's fall 2017 semester. Plenty of classes are available in many subjects for students to complete their educational and career goals in an affordable and convenient location.

Recent high school graduates, along with new and returning students, are encouraged to register immediately – the Fall 2017 semester begins August 26.

Students may earn an associate degree or certificate, transfer to a four-year college or university, or train for a career. Students can register for classes in areas such as earth sciences, core subjects such as math and English, journalism, history, a variety of languages and even physical education classes, ranging from fitness to boxing. “There are so many programs at El Camino College dedicated to helping students achieve bigger and better things,” said film major Gabriel Hashem, a 2015 graduate of South Torrance High School.

“Professors teach in a small-class environment and they really care about you and how you are doing. I have taken advantage of what El Camino College has to offer, such as Supplemental Instruction, the Honors Transfer Program and Writing Center, and that has enhanced my college experience.”

Registration is ongoing; students are encouraged to register online immediately for the best class selection. Apply and register online, 24 hours per day at www.elcamino.edu. Fees are only $46 per unit.
