

NEWS

---

El Camino College | Public Relations & Marketing Department
16007 Crenshaw Blvd., Torrance, CA 90506
Telephone: (310) 660-3406 | FAX: (310) 660-3946 | Contact: Ann M. Garten

For Immediate Release

March 21, 2007

Aerospace Outlook Conference to Focus on Supply Chain Optimization

Experts from the aerospace industry will share their knowledge on supply chain optimization at a half-day conference and luncheon for aerospace manufacturers and suppliers scheduled for 8 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. May 11 at the Manhattan Beach Marriott, 1400 Parkview Avenue in Manhattan Beach.

The Sixth Annual Aerospace Conference "Solutions to Optimize the Supply Chain" is hosted by the El Camino College Center for Applied Competitive Technologies (CATC) in conjunction with the South Bay Economic Development Partnership. The conference will feature a speakers' panel including:

- Kenneth Dozier, Executive Director of the USC/School of Technology Transfer Center (ETTC), and the NASA Far West Regional Transfer Center.
- Kellie Johnson, CEO, Ace Clearwater Enterprises.
- Sandra Adams, Product Assurance Director, Supply Chain, Raytheon Space and Airborne Systems.
- Christine Purcell, Manager of Industry Workforce and Manufacturing Development, California Space Authority.

The goal of this year's Aerospace Outlook Conference is to provide an understanding of the critical issues facing the supply chain and steps manufacturers can take to be prepared.

The mission of the El Camino College CATC is to help area manufacturers/aerospace companies compete successfully in changing markets and the global economy. The CATC helps to advance California's economic growth and global competitiveness through technology education, manufacturing training, and services that contribute to continuous workforce development. For more information, visit www.BusinessAssist.org.

Registration for the aerospace conference is $75 and includes continental breakfast and lunch along with a keynote presentation. For reservations, call the El Camino College CATC at 310-973-3163.

###