History Series

Ten Years After Special Event Series Led by John Powers

El Camino College Community Education invites you to participate in an exciting new series designed for you to gain insights into today's headline-grabbing events by looking back to our recent past. Ten Years After will examine, through text, video imagery, and discussion, several major events from the year 2003. Whether you think you know everything about these subjects or are still trying to figure them out, this course will shed light on what was known at the time and what we since have learned. The aim of the series is to benefit from an objective distance to help us make sound judgments about current major events in science, politics, and world affairs.
