Successful Student Behavior

Be what you is, not what you ain't, 'couse if you ain't what you is, you is what you ain't. - Luther Price

Strategies for your success

Each group will discuss the questions presented here but everyone is responsible for their own worksheet.

Being successful in a math class is about more than the math. Successful students often exhibit similar be sti haviors. Do you see yourself as a successful student? Do you practice the behaviors of successful udents?

1.	Name the person who you see as the best role model of a student. Why is this person a role model to you?
2.	What are some behaviors you think a successful student should exhibit? List 4:
	α.
	b.
	c.
	d.
3.	From this list, which do you already do on a regular basis?
4.	Which behaviors do you think you could try next?
	Lynn Marecek, Mary Anne Anthony-Smith, Study Skills for the College Math Student (Pearson Education, Inc, 2011)