Cornell Study Sheets

Do not confuse a creator with a dreamer. Dreamers only dream, but creators bring their dreams into reality.

Robert fritz

Create Cornell Study Sheets

The Cornell method provides a systematic format for condensing and organizing notes. The student divides the paper into two columns: the note-taking column (usually on the right) is twice the size of the questions/key word column (on the left). The student should leave five to seven lines, or about x (which should be recorded as soon as possible so that the lecture and questions will be fresh in the student's mind) or key words are written in the key word column. These notes can be taken from any source of information, such as, fiction and nonfiction books, DVDs, lectures, text books, etc.

After about 24 hours of taking the notes, the student taking the notes must revise and write questions and then the student writes a brief summary in the bottom five to seven lines of the page. This helps to increase understanding of the topic. When studying for either a test or quiz, the

Cornell Note-taking Method - Lifehacker.com Cues Notes * Main ideas * Record the lecture here, using * Questions * Concise sentences that connect * Shorthand symbols points * Abbreviations * Diagrams * Lists * Prompts to * Skip lots of space between points help you study WHEN: WHEN: During class After dass during review 6 inches 2.5 inches * Top level main ideas After class during review * For quick reference student has a concise but detailed and relevant record of previous classes. However, despite some of the truth in many people finding added benefits in taking Cornell Notes, many prefer using brief bullets or statements.

When reviewing the material, the student can cover up the note-taking (right) column to answer the questions/keywords in the key word or cue (left) column. The student is encouraged to reflect on the material and review the notes regularly.

The Cornell Note-taking System

