Primary Method of Evaluation:	1) Substantial writing assignments

Typical Assignment Using Primary Method of Evaluation:	In a one- to two-page memo, prepare a legal memorandum using the following facts and law. Use the Issue, Rule, Analysis, Conclusion (IRAC) legal analysis method. Facts: Carl Clay has been charged with burglary. He has asked our firm to represent him. Last Friday Carl was watching As the World Turns, his favorite soap opera, when suddenly the TV screen went blank. Nothing he could do would cause it to work. Unfortunately, Carl did not have enough money to buy a new set. He decided to help himself to someone else's. He drove to the nearby Sleep Well Motel because he knew that the owners had recently purchased new nineteen-inch TVs. When he got to the motel around 5:00 p.m., he waited in his car until he saw a lady leave her room, ice bucket in hand. She had left the door to her room slightly ajar. Carl quickly ran to the door, opened it, and saw the TV. He went over to the TV, unplugged it, and picked it up. He was about to leave when the woman unexpectedly returned. Knowing karate, she felled him on the spot and then called the office manager, who, in turn, called the police. The TV, which was purchased for $600 and had a resale price of approximately $400, was returned to its rightful place in the room. State Statutes: Ch 228, Section 1 Burglary is defined as the BREAKING and ENTERING of a DWELLING at NIGHTTIME with the INTENT TO COMMIT A FELONY THEREIN. (The five issues are in bold.) Ch 228, Section 2 Theft of personal property over the value of $500 is a felony. Theft of personal property of a value less than $500 is a misdemeanor.
Critical Thinking Assignment 1:	Facts: Betsy Barn, who is 17, has just inherited property from her grandparents. She would like to make a will to ensure that her friend "Bruno" will get this property if she should die. Her parents despise Bruno as they believe he is the source of drugs that Betsy is hooked on. Analyze the three issues below using the attached section of the California Probate Code and the Estate of Nolan case. In a two- to three-page report, prepare an analysis of your findings in the Issue, Reason, Analysis, Conclusion (IRAC) format. Issue 1: Can Betsy make a will? Issue 2: Who gets this property on her death if she does not make a will? Issue 3: If Betsy makes a valid will (later) could her parents challenge the validity of any will based on either her drug use or her choice of beneficiary?
Critical Thinking Assignment 2:	Imagine that you are interning in the attorney Harper's law firm. She has asked you to give her your thoughts on Mr. Drake's case. Specifically, attorney Harper wants you to list all of the ways in which you think Mr. Drake's case is similar to that of the hypothetical of the mother who saw her child injured. Then list all of the ways in which you think Mr. Drake's case could be linked to that of the bystander. Finally, give attorney Harper your evaluation as to why you think that a court would see Mr. Drake's case as more similar to that of the mother or to that of the bystander. Also, let her know if you think there are additional facts that you would want to gather before making a final recommendation. Present your findings in a two- to three-page report. Facts: Approximately one year ago, Donald Drake and his six-year-old grandson, Philip, were walking down a residential road on their way home from visiting one of Philip's friends. Philip was walking on the sidewalk approximately thirty feet in front of Mr. Drake. Suddenly, a car sped past Mr. Drake, seemingly went out of control, jumped the curb, and hit Philip. Mr. Drake ran to Philip's side, but it was too late. Philip had been killed instantly. The driver of the car, Mrs. Wilma Small, was unhurt. Based on skid marks and testimony from both Mrs. Small and Mr. Drake, the police investigation following the accident determined that excessive speed was the cause of the accident. Mr. Drake said that at the time of the accident his only concern was for the welfare of his grandson because he himself was clear of the danger. Naturally, Mr. Drake suffered a great deal of mental pain and shock because of seeing his grandson killed. While being driven home from the accident, he suffered a heart attack that necessitated a lengthy hospital stay. One year later, he still does not feel completely recovered and often suffers from nightmares reliving the accident and his grandson's death. Following the advice of trusted friends he decides to make an appointment at the law office of Darrow and Bryan to see if he can sue Mrs. Small to recover for his hospital bills and for his pain and suffering.
