El Camino College Center for the Arts Presents “Satin Brass” Quartet to Perform a Variety of Music, From Classical to Jazz

The smooth sound stylings of the accomplished quartet “Satin Brass” will fill the El Camino College Campus Theatre at 3 p.m. Sunday, June 14.

El Camino College applied music instructor and trombone player Robert Coomber is part of the ensemble, which also includes June Satton, trombone and Glenda Smith and Bill Barrett, trumpets. The group will lead an exciting afternoon of music, performing a range of tunes from classical to jazz.

The quartet performs in a variety of venues and each member is extensively accomplished in his or her musical endeavors. Some members have traveled with the noted big bands of Harry James and the Glen Miller Orchestra.

Satin Brass is known for showcasing the regal elegance of brass music in its repertoire of Renaissance, baroque, classical, jazz, and popular works. The lush sonority of these brass instruments provides audiences with a range of sounds and styles.

Coomber studied trombone at California State University, Northridge where he received a bachelor’s degree in music (cum laude) and later received a master’s degree in trombone performance and literature from the Eastman School of Music. He was a teaching assistant in trombone and euphonium while there.
