Love Letters to My Mother: A Chicana Reflection on Mothering and Daughtering in the Academy

In this talk, Dr. Cindy R. Escobedo builds on her personal life experience having navigated college alongside her mother and sister, to offer a reconceptualized understanding of what it means for Chicana scholars to care for the self, and for family during their collegiate pursuits. To complement the discussion, attendees will be invited to produce a handwritten love letter that can be preserved for the self or gifted to a loved one.
